

PIDs

Overseeing group planning implementation activities for each center

Use Case 1: GEOMAR

Working group:

- HMC: Andrea Pörsch, Emanuel Söding
- GEOMAR: Hela Mehrstens, Klaus Getzlaff

What is the current status in capturing PIDs?

At GEOMAR, research data management is supported by institutional policies and guidance.

- A research data policy is in place: https://doi.org/10.3289/data\_policy\_V1\_2022
- A publication policy is also available: <https://oceanrep.geomar.de/63706>
- Information on persistent identifiers (PIDs) is provided on the GEOMAR website: <https://www.geomar.de/forschen/forschungsdaten#c19505>

At present, CrossRef DOIs are the only PID type that appears to be systematically captured;

ORCID, ROR, IGSN, and Handles (for models and simulations) are captured in some cases but still rely largely on manual or only partly documented workflows.

DataCite DOIs for data publications are not yet captured, although GEOMAR is a DataCite consortium member.

PIDInst, and RaID are not yet used.

See more information on the particular PID types in the PID implementation chapters.
